Featuring: Performance Storyteller & Award-Winning Author Steven James

Since developing his skill as a performer at East Tennessee State University (MA in Storytelling), he has spoken more than 1,500 times throughout North America and has taught creative storytelling and writing in South Africa, Ukraine, Canada, Kazakhstan and India.

Best known for his hilarious and heartwarming stories and masterful use of audience involvement, listeners around the world have been inspired by his poignant and powerful performances.

But Steven doesn’t just tell stories.

He creates them.

As one of the most versatile authors in the country, Steven has penned more than 25 books of both award-winning fiction and nonfiction including fantasy, inspiration, poetry, short stories, scripts, a nine-book storytelling library of resources for educators, and the bestselling psychological thrillers The Pawn and The Rook.

Sharing his unique blend of comedy, drama, and inspirational storytelling, Steven James is in constant demand as a family entertainer, keynote speaker, and inspirational seminar leader.

School Administrator Jerry Williams recently shared his excitement regarding the workshop “At Providence Academy the art of rhetoric is at the heart of our curriculum.” As seniors work on their thesis and prepare to make an oral presentation/oral defense, they are challenged to creatively synthesize their writing and speaking skills. Steven James brings us the creative and artistic talent of a best-selling and award winning author, a nationally renowned speaker and storyteller, and a teacher with the ability to help us improve in the way we craft a story verbally or in writing.” Come join us as Steven shares his tips and techniques for storytelling at our first Storytelling Workshop at Providence Academy.
